

I can't believe you would even consider overturning New Jersey's 'Do Not Call' law. It has been a pleasure to know that I can sit down to eat my dinner in peace without the phone ringing with "them" on the phone asking me to buy "something". Before the law went into effect I could count on at least one interruption a week during the dinner hour.

Please think about what you will be doing to my family, as well as, others that live in New Jersey.

Lori Driscoll